

Conclusions renouf2002time recognizes the importance of digitally storing both historical and modern textual data. In light of the growing interest in diachronic lexical semantic change, this paper is a case-study investigation of the evolution of jia. The evolution of jia is a compressed history of the Chinese society and the Chinese language. The analysis of word With the advantage of distributional semantic models, the meaning conflation of home, house, and family can be explored. How polysemy of homophone is to be explored through external resources such as dictionary and negative examples.